NO PHOTOGRAPHY
NO VIDEO RECORDING

What is recording?

TAKING PHOTOGRAPHS

TAKING VIDEO

RECORDING THEIR VOICE

IS IT OK TO RECORD
SOMEONE WITHOUT THEIR PERMISSION?

Post on social media

To try and catch them out

To bully people

You think it is funny

Your bored

Why do we record other people

Consent (they have said yes)

The person has said that you can record, take their photograph or video them.

Consent is crucial when capturing someone's image or recording video in the UK.

Respecting an individual's right to privacy and obtaining their consent is essential in ethical photography and videography practices.

What you can do?

Photograph or record video of people in public places without their consent, as long as it is for personal use.

Capture images or record videos at public events or gatherings where individuals can reasonably expect to be photographed or filmed.

Public places?

Areas of Restricted Photography/Videography

There are certain areas where taking photographs or videos is restricted or prohibited, such as:

- Military installations or sensitive locations

- Prisons or secure facilities

- Courts or legal proceedings

- Airports and transportation hubs (security concerns)

What is Illegal

- It is illegal to capture or distribute photographs or videos that infringe upon someone's reasonable expectation of privacy, including:

- Capturing explicit or intimate images without consent (upskirting, revenge porn, etc.)

- Secretly recording in private spaces like bathrooms, changing rooms, or bedrooms

- Harassing individuals by persistently taking their photos against their will

Protecting Your Privacy

- If your image or video has been posted online without consent, here are steps you can take:

1. Evaluate the situation: Determine if the content violates your privacy rights or is potentially harmful.
2. Report the incident: Contact the website or social media platform where the content was posted, and report the violation.
3. Request removal: Submit a formal request to the platform or website, clearly stating the reasons for removal.
4. Seek legal advice: If the situation escalates or the content remains online despite your requests, consult with a lawyer to explore legal remedies.

Additional Measures

- To protect your privacy proactively, consider the following steps:
  - - Adjust your social media privacy settings to control who can view and share your content.
